PERFORMANCE

Not Promises

Is what you want in your clothes. In the race for business extravagant claims may bring temporary success but only clothes that have the qualities to make good, build business permanently. The other kind may look good at first, but a short interval of wear soon un-gover their faults.

"Master Built" clothes are thoroughly good from every standpoint.

The Styles are authoritative creations of fashion leaders and are the models that will be worn by the best dressed men in Canada.

The Fabrics and making are such as to be entirely above criticism.

If you have never worn a Master Built Suit or Overcoat you owe it to yourself to test our tailoring service this season.

We also deal in 10th Century Brand of Clothing, so can insure price and fit to suit.

King Constantine Faces Crisis

News has been received from London that Vice-Admiral Fournet, commander of the Anglo-French fleet in the Mediterranean, has handed the Greek Government a new note of an extremely grave character. Following the presentation of the note, King Constantine came to the capital in haste from his residence at Tatoi.

At Athens and Piræus the city hall at the capital and the Castella Barracks have been occupied by French and Italian sailors, and machine guns have been stationed in the municipal theatre.

Vicount Grey Against Republic

"What stands in the way of creating a Greek republic?" asks the London Daily Mail in an editorial this week, declaring that a Greek republic was favored by General Sarrail, the commander-in-chief of the allied operations in the Balkans, as well as by ex-Premier Venizelos and other Greek leaders. The Mail continues:

"Rumor says that the obstacle to a republic is not in Greek, but in the courtly minds of statesmen elsewhere, for example Vicecount Gypri. But it seems incredible that theory of divine right should have any considerable supporters in England."

Lieut. Fred Scott Seriously Ill

Word has been received that Lieut. Fred Scott is seriously ill with pneumonia. Now that war-like operations are being engaged in, we know that Lieut. Scott will be greatly disappointed that his illness in Netley Hospital, London, will prevent him from taking part with his battalion at the front. We sincerely hope that it will not be long before we hear of his recovery.

Electric Light for Oyen

Within a short time the people of Oyen will be enjoying the benefits derived from having electric light.

Messrs. Spaulding and Marshall who are undertaking this enterprise, have already ordered the plant. The only thing which is delaying the progress is permission from the Government to erect a power line for transmission of electrical energy along the streets and alleys. They expect to be around in few days to secure the names of the people who are desirous of having the light installed, and thereby get an idea as to the cost. The more subscribers there are the cheaper it will be to the consumer.

Snow Storm Put Stop To Threshing

Snow commenced to fall early yesterday morning and continued till noon. Monday was very dull and a storm seemed to be brewing all day, but it was not till early the following morning that the snow commenced to fall. The storm has put a stop to all threshing, and even if the weather does become bright and warm, it will be a week before any threshing can be done.

Trafalgar Day

On Saturday next will be the anniversary of the battle of Trafalgar, when Lord Nelson fought that memorable battle, and won for the British Empire the supremacy of the seas.

In 1805 Napoleon made his last great effort to gain command of the seas, and on the 21st day of October of that year, came up with the combined French and Spanish fleet to Cape Trafalgar. Although the British were inferior in numbers, it was a decisive victory, and the combined fleet was annihilated. But the joy of the nation was turned to mourning, for when in the hour of victory, the great hero was mortally wounded and died within a few hours after the battle.

The hero of Trafalgar fought for Liberty and Right. He fought for the weak nations in that they might have the right to existence. This was the day when Nelson ran up that famous signal, "England expects every man to do his duty," and set a glorious example which has been gloriously followed.

To-day on land and sea, the flower of the British Empire are enduring hardships and suffering, even unto death, in order to establish the rights of weaker nations to existence. Our soldiers and sailors are fighting against a nation who count for less than nothing, men's lives, women's virtues, and baby's innocence, should they stand in the way of their progress. They are fighting against a second Napoleon, or pench-beck Napoleon whose ambition will be his undoing.

Terrors of the "Tank"

Out of the gloom the Germans attacked by the British on the Somme saw creeping towards them, like hosts the size of mastodons, or like ichthyosaurs of the primeval slime—these are samples of the war correspondents' descriptions—a number of weird, "flat-footed," motor driven machines. These slowly made their way over everything in front of them: trenches, shell craters, walls, barbed wire. Trees snapped like twigs, and one had only to "lean against" a machine, and over went the house, and over went the machine levelling the ruins like a steam roller. Neither rifles nor machine guns made the slightest impression on the fearsome monsters, which spat streams of bullets and shells from every side. Panic stricken, the Germans fled before them when they could, the "heavily armoured cars," as General Haig calls them, got astride of the trenches and enfiladed the communications. Our own men had the way cleared for them and were sheltered by the cars, which are vulnerable only to the direct hit of a big gun shell. Our men's sense of humor was tickled exceedingly, as when a machine lumbered through the enemy-held village of Fiers, and a lad in khaki shouted in ecstasy, "she's walking up the street, and the British army is marching up behind her"; and when a German colonel, paralysed by surprise, was pulled into one machine through an open aperture, and was a passenger for the rest of the journey. With their sensitiveness to "frightfulness" other than their own, a German colonel taken prisoner described the machine as "an impertinence," while others denounced it as "unfair." It is indeed the proper name of the armoured car is "Tank" but that because of the warning against asking questions it has been nicknamed the "Hush, hush."—C.W.

Sidewalk Whispers

A. W. Coome, secretary of the Alberta Reform League, says, "I have seen more drunken men in the Peace River district in the last two weeks than I have seen in the whole of the province in the previous two months." ... —Saskatoon Star.

Mr. Coome needn't go up to the Peace River district. Better visit a few towns along the Goose Lake line.

Last Saturday was wet enough.

Is it gasoline or fire-water that man carries in his car?

"Go to Church Sunday."—Adv.—Alaskan News.

We should imagine by this time that new additions have been built on all the churches in Alaskan.

Canadian Battalions Arrive in England

It is officially announced, through the chief press censor's office, that the following troops have arrived safely in England. The 51st and 175th Alberta Battalion.

The 162nd Saskatchewan Battalion.

The 170th Highlanders, Winnipeg.

The 183rd Winnipeg Batt'n.

Drafts for Field and Heavy Artillery, Cavalry, Infantry (Royal Canadian Regiment), Army Service Corps, and C. A. D. C.

Methodist Parsonage

At a meeting of the Trustee Board of the Oyen Methodist church, on Tuesday last, it was decided to build a parsonage. The following were appointed on the Building Committee: Rev. S. D. Webster, W. T. A. Walker and J. Howard Alexander. The cost of the building will be in the neighborhood of $1,300.

It has been officially announced that Sir Thomas Tait has resigned his position as Director of National Service, to which he was appointed. He will be succeeded by R. B. Bennett of Calgary.

Speed and Endurance

Snyder, Oklahoma
CHEVROLET WON TWICE

In the automobile races at Snyder, Oklahoma, Tuesday and Wednesday a Chevrolet 400 car, sold by Carr & Fritchard to Joseph Roark, of Snyder, won first prize both days—an indication that the Chevrolet has both speed and endurance.

The course was 10 1/2 miles in length, starting from a dead stop in Snyder, making two square turns in the town and running five miles north, then turning in the road and running back over the course. Twelve bridges and culverts were crossed in the course. The first day the Chevrolet finished a mile and a half a head of the only other car that stayed in the race, finishing in 13 minutes and 12 seconds. The second day the course was covered in 12 minutes and 43 seconds, cars of three other makes being entered.—Frederick Lender, Oklahoma.

High Cost of Living

The federal government will in all probability, be asked to appoint a commission to go into the entire problem of the ever increasing cost of living. Up to the present the question has been spasmodically attacked by various organizations, but the suggestion now being made is that all these organizations should combine and this will likely take the form to start things by a big mass meeting. Some of the more important of the organizations now considering the matter are the Trades and Labor council, the Local Council of Women and the Canadian Pacific railway industrial organizations. Data of prices of the commodities which form the ordinary substances of living are now being gathered by the committee of the Trades and Labor council and one of the big questions is whether the rise in price is due to natural conditions or by illegal combinations of the middlemen.

British Sailors Relief Fund

A Branch for Southern Alberta of the British Sailors' Relief Fund has been organized for Southern Alberta for the purpose of showing to a small extent the appreciation of the people towards the grand work done by the men of the Navy and Merchant Marine.

The idea of the Fund is to provide for the large number of widows and sick orphans of the brave seamen who have given their lives for the protection of not only the British coast, but Canada as well. The men of the Navy have accomplished great things for Britain and Canada. Through their continual watchfulness all our ships have crossed the ocean with troops in an unbroken line. Our grain and merchandise has gone forward to provide food, clothing and munitions for the large army, and without the services of the Navy this could not have been accomplished.

The fact is if it had not been for the services and devotion of the men of the navy Canada would today be under the rule of the German flag, and we would be under the same position as Belgium, to the navy therefore we owe our liberty, and every true Canadian should be willing to contribute something towards providing for the families of the brave sailors.

In undertaking to raise this fund the committee wish the hearty support and co-operation of everyone, and that all will be willing to do everything in their power to determine with them that every British sailor who suffers in the name of the Empire and Canada shall feel that the hearts of his fellow-men everywhere in the world are with him.

The Committee have agreed to raise, at least, $25,000.00 in Southern Alberta and earnestly hope that all who are asked to assist will do so at once as they wish to report to headquarters on October 21st, the Anniversary of the battle of Trafalgar when Britain became mistress of the seas.

Directors of National Service Meet

The directors of the National Service held a conference in Ottawa last week. The following is a summary of their conclusions and proposals in regard to ways and means of utilizing Canada's man-power to the best advantage for the rest of the war.

There are four main recommendations. In the first place an inventory is to be made of the man-power still left in Canada according to individual aptitudes for national service and according to national economic needs. The details as to how this big task is to be worked out are still under consideration. In the second place the director in each district is empowered to grant certificates and badges to men who offer to enlist for active military service but who are declared to be giving greater value to the state by remaining at work in their own occupation. In the third place, men who hereafter enlist and are afterwards found by the district director to be more needed in their old occupation may be released from the military forces to resume that occupation. The fourth main recommendation is for the establishment of a woman's national service board with a view to registering available supplies of woman labour and securing the proper distribution of that labour to fill the gaps left by the enlistment of men.

OilPull Means This

FUEL at one-half the price means lower operating costs, smaller upkeep expenses and bigger profits.

Bear in mind that the OilPull is the only tractor that will successfully burn kerosene and cheaper oil fuels at all loads, under all conditions—all the time.

The OilPull, through deep plowing and thorough soil working, is increasing crops for a great many Dixie owners—in some cases doubling them. Burning kerosene, the OilPull adds this increase to your bank account at the lower possible cost.

A more dependable tractor than the OilPull can't be bought and you will find it able to take care of all your power jobs, whether draw-bar or belt. Two sizes, 15-30 and 30-60 horsepower.
